Resolution

Repeated Course Enrollment Policy

Approved by the Commission on Undergraduate Studies and Policies:

Approved by University Council

Approved by President

Effective:

Whereas, no current university policy limits the number of times a student may enroll and fail to complete a course, and

Whereas, many students repeatedly enroll in courses after more than one unsuccessful attempt, and

Whereas, students who repeatedly enroll and yet fail to complete courses successfully limit access for students who have not yet enrolled in these courses and therefore may delay progress to degree and graduation for those who have not gained access to those same courses, and

Whereas, repeated unsuccessful attempts are often indicative of inappropriate major selection and the need for advising intervention, and

Whereas, repeated unsuccessful attempts to complete a course may place an additional financial burden on students, and

Whereas, repeated unsuccessful attempts to complete a course may prevent students from meeting progress to degree requirements in a timely manner,

Therefore, Be It Resolved that:

- An attempt at a course shall be defined as enrollment on the census day each semester (generally the tenth classroom day in fall and spring semesters; the fifth day of summer terms).

- Students shall be limited to three attempts at any course.

- Students who enroll for a fourth attempt will be dropped from the course.

- Exceptions to the repeated attempts restriction include:
  - Course designated for repeated credit (to the limit allowed);
  - Courses designed to take multiple semesters to complete;

Effective Date: This policy is effective for all students first enrolled Fall 2013 and after.
